LAMAR HUNT

President of the American Football League and Owner of the Dallas Texans

A sports enthusiast all his life, Lamar Hunt's desire to bring professional football to his hometown led not only to the founding of the Dallas Texans, but of the American Football League.

Told that there was no chance of Dallas or any other city being added to the National Football League and rebuffed in an attempt to bring the Chicago Cardinals to Dallas, Hunt contacted sports enthusiasts like himself in other parts of the nation. From this contact grew the American Football League. Joining Dallas in the effort to give more Americans pro football were Houston, Los Angeles, Oakland, Boston, New York, Buffalo and Denver.

For his efforts in behalf of Dallas and Texas, the Texas Sportswriters Association named Lamar Hunt "Southwesterner of the Year," the highest award it can bestow.

Captain of the famed Hill School football team in Pottstown, Pennsylvania, Hunt was on the varsity roster at SMU for three seasons. He graduated from SMU with a degree in geology in 1956.

Hunt, 27, is married to the former Rose Mary Whittle. They have two children, Lamar Jr., 3, and Sharron Lynne, 2.

JACK STEADMAN

General Manager of the Dallas Texans

The tremendous job of running the huge Dallas Texans operation is that of 32-year-old Jack Steadman, a highly-successful businessman and a lifelong sports enthusiast.

A Dallas citizen for most of his life, Steadman is a graduate of Woodrow Wilson High School (Dallas) and of Southern Methodist University (Dallas). He was in the Hunt Oil Company family for 10 years prior to joining the Texans in November, 1960. Prior to taking his present position, Steadman was chief accountant for the Penrod Drilling Company.

A football and basketball player at Woodrow Wilson, Steadman stands 6-5 and weighs a trim 230. He is a deacon of the Ross Avenue Baptist Church. Jack Steadman is married and he and his wife, Martha, are parents of three children.

Steadman's aides include Will Walls, who heads the vast Texan player personnel system; Harold Rutcliff, business manager; Paul Vickery and Tex Hamer, ticket managers; Bob Halford, publicity, and Charlie Jones, the official voice of the Texans and director of the very popular Texan halftimes.

The Texan secretarial staff consists of Mary Pattinson, secretary to Lamar Hunt; Barbara Marcum, secretary to Jack Steadman; Anne Rideout, Pat Soro; Linda Stewart and Betty Pendergraft. Norma Knobel and Billie Seibel handle special promotions.

HANK STRAM
Texan Head Coach

One of the most-respected football minds in the country, Stram became the Texan head coach after building outstanding attacks at Miami (1959), Notre Dame (1957-58), Southern Methodist (1956) and Purdue (1948-55). Stram has been given much of the credit for the development of four quarterbacks, (Dale Samuels and Len Dawson of Purdue, George Izo of Notre Dame and Fran Curci of Miami), who earned All-America recognition.

Stram's 1960 Texan team won eight of 14 regular season games and all six pre-season contests for an overall record of 14-6. The Texans were the American Football League's No. 1 running team and the Texan defense allowed less points than any team in the league. Dallas finished second in the AFL's Western Division, but Stram's team held shutout victories over both Houston, the league's first champion, and Los Angeles, the West leader.

The 37-year-old Stram is assisted by offensive line coach Bill Walsh, formerly of Notre Dame and the Pittsburgh Steelers, defensive backfield coach Ed Hughes, of Tulsa, the Los Angeles Rams and the New York Giants and defensive line coach Tom Carlin, Oklahoma all-American and a former Cleveland Brown, Chicago Cardinal and Philadelphia Eagle. Wayne Rudy, longtime SMU trainer, heads the Texan training program and Bobby Yarbrough is equipment manager.

HANK STRAM LOOKS AT 1961

"The Dallas Texans and the American Football League will be 20 to 30% better than they were in 1960 - The year of experience will make a tremendous difference in the operation of offensive and defensive patterns. You can still look for spectacular, high scoring and exciting football, but the overall execution will be greatly improved.

I think that the Dallas Texans can win the Western Division. We must, however, be able to overcome the injury jinx that plagued us last year. We must be able to win the close ones. And finally, we must have versatility. The latter will be a very important factor because we have reduced our player limit by two to 33. We must, therefore, have players who can play more than one position, or perhaps, play both offensively and defensively in the same game. We feel that we signed some outstanding performers who fit our versatility needs exceptionally well -- E. J. Holub, Fred Arbanas, John O'Day, Jim Tyrer, Jerry Mays, Frank Jackson and Paul Hynes. These rookies, along with veterans, Sid Fournet, Bill Krisher, Paul Miller, Curley Johnson, Johnny Robinson, Abner Haynes, David Webster, Jerry Cornelison, Charlie Diamond, Don Flynn, Ted Greene, Jim Harris, Duane Wood, Chris Burford and others are all capable of playing several positions.

The Texans will continue to stress and feature balance...it is still the key. If we can establish and maintain the overall offensive and defensive balance that we had in our early 1960 games, we can win in 1961."

GENERAL

The Dallas Texans very definitely expect to be strong contenders for the American Football League championship in 1961. A mid-season slump, created to a large extent by a series of injuries, curtailed the Texan challenge in 1960 although the 8-6 record of the Dallas team was certainly not embarrassing. Included in the eight victories were a 24-0 decision over AFL champion Houston and a 17-0 verdict over Western Division titlist Los Angeles (now San Diego) Chargers. The Texans allowed less points than any team in the league (253) and, although they were fourth in points scored, their total of 362 points scored was only 20 points less than the New York Titans' league-leading mark. The Texan point spread was 26-18 as compared to second best Houston's 27-20.

The nucleus of the fine 1960 team remains. Abner Haynes, the AFL's Player of the Year, is back as is his halfback partner Johnny Robinson, fullback Jack Spikes, quarterback Cotton Davidson, end Chris Burford, guards Sid Fournet and Bill Krisher and from the defensive team ends Paul Miller and Mel Branch, line-backer Sherrill Headrick and defensive backs Don Flynn and David Webster. Haynes, Krisher, Branch and Headrick were on the All-AFL first team and several of the others received second team honors.

And, adding further credence to the Texans' claims that a championship may be in the offing, are newcomers like all-American linebacker E. J. Holub of Texas Tech, a 6-4, 225-pounder who has been called "the finest professional prospect in the country " In addition to Holub the Texan rookie list includes standouts like end Fred Arbanas of Michigan State and tackles Jim Tyrer of Ohio State and Jerry Mays of SMU.

And then there's Randy Duncan. Everybody's all-American at Iowa in 1958, Duncan will be a Texan quarterback candidate after two year's in Canada. He led the nation in passing at Iowa and, from accounts of his final game in Canadian football (five touchdowns and more than 300 yards), he has lost none of his touch.

Summed up: the Dallas Texans, who some people thought might have been the class of the American Football League in 1960, should be a much better football team in 1961.

THE OFFENSE

QUARTERBACKS---Cotton Davidson, the starter in 1960, returns as does understudy Hunter Enis. Davidson passed nearly 2500 yards last year and 15 touchdowns. Enis, although he was used much less, had the AFL's best completion percentage for those who passed more than 50 times. The former TCU star completed 30 of 54 for a .556 percentage. Randy Duncan is top rated of the QB newcomers. His presence makes the Texan signal-calling position a strong point.

HALFBACKS---Abner Haynes heads the list as he would almost any list. The rookie from North Texas State was not only the "most exciting" player in the league last year, he was very likely its best. He led in rushing (156 carries, 875 yards, 5.6 average) and in punt returns (14 returns, 215 yards, 15.4 average). He ranked high in pass receiving and in kickoff returns. Across the T from Haynes is Johnny Robinson, who except for injury might have been Haynes' top foe for most of his honors. As it was Robinson ranked in the AFL's top ten in rushing, pass receiving and punt returns. Curley Johnson is back to lend talented aid to the twosome and Paul Hynes of Louisiana Tech and Frank Jackson of SMU look like the best of the newcomers. The position is very strong.

FULLBACKS---With Jack Spikes healthy the Texan fullback position is as well fortified, if not better, than any in the American Football League. Spikes started fast in 1960, but a leg injury slowed him for about half the season. The wound is healed now and he can be expected to again be the five yard plus player he was in early 1960. In addition to being the Texans' tough yardage man, Spikes will probably handle most of the placement kicking. He scored 103 points in 1960, 73 by the place kick route. Bo Dickinson, who spelled Spikes well last year, is back again to vie with newcomer Jerry Brown, the No. 1 service player in the country last year, and possibly halfback Curley Johnson for a fullback job.

ENDS--Chris Burford is destined to be one of the fine ends in pro football. Max Boydston, who played tight end to Burford's split end last year, has retired, but newcomer Fred Arbanas seems capable of doing a good job there. Other possibilities include Larry Muff, a two-way performer from St. Benedict's; Tony Romeo from Florida State; Danny House from Davidson and Ed Bernet, the veteran who spent most of last season as a Texan.

TACKLES--Jerry Cornelison and Charley Diamond are returnees from 1960 and can do a good job. Jim Tyrer, 265-pound giant from Ohio State, is a top rookie as is John O'Day of Miami, a toughie who can go either way. Jerry Mays of SMU, normally considered a defensive player, is another possibility should more strength at this position be required.

GUARDS--Dallas had the best offensive guards in the league last year and all are back. Bill Krisher was all-AFL and teammates felt the other position should have gone to Sid Fournet. Marvin Terrell backs these two splendidly. Newcomer John Cadwell is a fine prospect.

CENTER--Jim Barton, last year's starter, returns. Top foe for a starting job is probably Arvie Martin, TCU captain in 1960. Linebacker E. J. Holub can also do a good job offensively.

DEFENSE

ENDS--There wasn't a finer pair of defensive ends in the AFL last season than Mel Branch and Paul Miller. Branch, the rookie, was named to the all-AFL first team while Miller, the veteran, was a second team selection. Dick Frey, who can also do a creditable job as an offensive guard or as a linebacker, provided support for the Branch and Miller. This year's newcomers include Larry Muff and Tony Romeo and possibly Jerry Mays. All three also will be considered for offensive spots.

TACKLES--Ray Collins, the 10-year veteran who had a very fine year in 1960, is due back along with Paul Rochester and Buffalo Napier. The Texan defense was the stingiest in football in December, allowing only seven points in three games. A very big reason was Collins and Rochester. Jerry Mays will probably be given a good shot at a spot here as will John O'Day.

LINEBACKERS--A problem for much of 1960, this should be a definite strong point in 1961. Sherrill Headrick, an all-league selection, is back and he has all of his teammates from last year plus the brilliant E. J. Holub for aid. Ted Greene and Smokey Stover were starters last season with Walt Corey a dependable fill man. Roy Lee Rambo, a Headrick-type from TCU, will contest for a spot as will all-Army selection Jerry Brown and Jon Gilliam, a second-year man with good credentials.

DEEP BACKS--David Webster, Duane Wood, Don Flynn and Jimmy Harris, the four starters at the end of the 1960 season, will be back again along with subs John Bookman. This antiaircraft sextet shut out five foes (best mark in the league), including the last three. Wood and Webster are most likely to remain cornerbacks with Flynn and Harris as safeties. Flynn has played at a corner and Webster can play safety. Newcomers include Frank Jackson and J. W. Mashburn, a pair of sub-10 second men. Also several offensive backs are possibilities as defenders.

KICKING GAME

Cotton Davidson was the AFL's second-ranking kicker last year (39.4 average). Curley Johnson, who handled most of the kickoff chores, was Davidson's top sub. Both will be back. Newcomer Robert Montgomery of North Carolina College has a good reputation as a punter. Placekicking duties were Jack Spikes' in 1960, although Davidson did kick eight for eight extra points and one for one field goals. Spikes kicked 13 of 31 field goals and 34 of 36 field goals. Newcomer Tommy Wells was the No. 2 kicker in the country as a collegian at Georgia Tech and could help the Texans.

TEXAN VETERANS IN BRIEF

JIM BARTON, Center, Marshall College--Came to Texans as defensive end, but made rapid and very successful conversion to offensive center. Played every offensive down in 1960 except those requiring a deep snap. Had one year experience in NFL prior to joining the Texans. Stands 6-5 and weighs 250. Married June, 1961.

ED BERNET, End, Southern Methodist--Good moves and great hands give popular ex-Mustang good chance of playing a second season with Texans. Musician and contractor in off-season. Stands 6-4 and weighs 205. Caught four passes for 49 yards in 1960. Four-year veteran.

JOHN BOOKMAN, Defensive Halfback, Miami (Fla.)--Small, but exceptionally fast defender. Intercepted four passes in 1960 and earned some all-league recognition. Weighs 185 and is 5-11. Third year in pro ball.

MEL BRANCH, Defensive End, ISU--A great defensive end in 1960 and almost certain to be even better this year. Although just average in size (6-2, 220) for his position, has great strength and determination. Unanimous all-AFL selection last year. Was member of famed "Chinese Bandits" on ISU national championship team. Married and a father. Second-year man.

CHRIS BURFORD, End, Stanford--Destined to become one of pro football's finest ends. Has very good moves and sure hands. Not-exceptionally fast, but can run with the football as evidenced by an average gain of 17.2 yards per reception in 1960. Caught 46 passes last year for 789 yards. Was all-American at Stanford in 1959 when he set an NCAA record for pass receptions (61). Stands 6-3 and weighs 210. Married and father of two daughters. Second year as Texan.

RAY COLLINS, Defensive Tackle, ISU--The Texans' "old pro" and one of the biggest reasons the 1960 Dallas defense was among the finest in football. Very quick despite his size (6-0, 250), no defender in the league rushes a passer better. This year will be 10th in pro football, including two seasons as player-coach in Canada. Is 32, married and father of six.

WAIT COREY, Linebacker, Miami (Fla.)--Converted end who provided one of 1960 season's biggest surprises. Quick reflexes and competitive fire offset lack of experience at position. Native of LaTrobe, Pa., where first pro football game in history was played. Intercepted three passes last year and blocked field goal attempt against Buffalo. Weighs 215 and is 6-0. Unmarried. Second-year pro.

JERRY CORNELLISON, Tackle, Southern Methodist--Big and quick was one of league's top offensive linemen at 1960 season's end. Could play guard, but was used as tackle altogether last year. Considered one of SMU's top linemen of past decade. Weighs 250 and is 6-3. Third pro year. Married.

CLEMON LANTIELS, Halfback, Prairie View--Terrific speed and size (6-1. 220) make him outstanding prospect. Needs experience. Was used almost solely as defensive halfback in 1960, but future probably best as offensive performer.

COTTON DAVIDSON, Quarterback, Baylor--"The Rifleman". Was Texans' No. 1 quarterback almost all of 1960. Passed for 2,474 yards on 179 completions in 379 attempts. Threw 15 touchdown passes and averaged 6.53 yards per attempt. Effective both long and short, although is generally considered a better short passer. Former coach at Baylor, is good play selector. Married and three-time father. Stands 6-0, weighs 180. Fifth year as pro.

CHARLEY DIAMOND, Tackle, Miami (Fla.)--Starter much of 1960 season and developed into one of Texans' best interior linemen. Not big (6-2, 235), but toughness helps offset lack of pro tackle's size. Played for Hank Stram at Miami.

BO DICKINSON, Fullback, Mississippi Southern--Quick-hitter who filled in well for injured Jack Spikes in 1960. Good pass blocker and, although used sparingly, was good runner when called upon (35 carries for 143 yards). Would probably be regular for many AFL teams. Weighs 210 and is 6-2. Married and father. Third-year pro

HUNTER ENIS, Quarterback, TCU--Smart, young (24) signal-caller. Throws well and with experience might develop into very good quarterback. Led TCU to Southwest Conference title in 1958. Completed 30 of 54 for 356 yards in 1960. 6-2 and 190. Married.

DON FLYNN, Defensive Halfback, Houston--No defensive back in the American Football League was a tougher, more sure tackler. Probably the most underrated member of the Texans' often brilliant defensive team. Very smart and, although not particularly fast, is seldom out of position. Intercepted three passes last year and returned one for a touchdown. Veteran of two years in Canada before joining Texans. Stands 6-0 and weighs 205. Graduate engineer. Recently married.

SID FOURNET, Guard, ISU--A great offensive guard in 1960, was one good reason why Texans led the AFL in rushing offense. Big (6-1, 240) and fast. Abner Haynes credits Fournet's blocking with much of his success as a running back. Versatile, can also play defensive end and linebacker--and has. All-American at ISU before spending four seasons in NFL. Married and a father.

DICK FREY, Defensive End-Guard, Texas A&M--"Mr. Everywhere" for 1960 Texans. Did good job as defensive end, offensive guard and as linebacker. Very valuable to 1960 Texans despite fact he never held a regular job. Former high school coach. 6-2 and 230. Married. Second year as pro.

TED GREENE, Linebacker, Tampa--Played very creditably as both inside and outside linebacker in 1960. Biggest of Texan linebackers (6-1 and 230) and one of best pass defenders (3 interceptions). Former high school coach. Fourth year in pro ball. Married and a father.

JIMMY HARRIS, Defensive Halfback, Oklahoma--Missed much of 1960 season because of legal problem, but returned to do creditable job in final half of year. Smaller than most defensive halfbacks (6-1, 175) but also probably cagier. Intercepted two passes in 1960. Was quarterback on Oklahoma national championship teams in 1956 and 1957. Never played on losing team as collegian. Fourth year pro. Married and a father.

ARNER HAYNES, Halfback, North Texas State--The Player of the Year in the American Football League for 1960. Unanimous all-AFL selection. The outstanding rookie in professional football. Led AFL in rushing with 875 yards on 156 rushes (5.6 yard average) and in punt returns with 14 for 215 yards (15.4 yard average). No other AFL player won a league title in more than one phase of play. Also caught 55 passes for 576 yards, scored 12 touchdowns for 72 points and returned 19 kickoffs for 434 yards. Again no AFL player figured so high in so many departments. Was twice Missouri Valley Conference "Back of the Year" at North Texas. Led team to two championships in three seasons. Small in appearance (6-0, 185), is nevertheless very durable. Carried 27 times in one 1960 game. Married and a father.

SHERRIIL HEADRICK, Linebacker, TCU--The No. 1 linebacker in the American Football League. San Diego Charger coach Sid Gillman called him "one of the best linebackers I've ever seen." A savage tackler with an uncanny knack for being on top of a play. All-AFL first team. Used as offensive guard one season in Canada before making it big with Texans. Not big (6-2, 215) as middle linebackers go. Married and a father.

CURLEY JOHNSON, Halfback-Fullback, Houston--Probably the Texans' best blocking back. Played behind both halfbacks and Jack Spikes in 1960 and did good job when called upon. Powerful runner with fair speed. Good receiver. Did most of kickoff work last year. Good punter. Married and a father. Fourth year as a professional. Stands 6-0, weighs 215.

BILL KRISHER, Guard, Oklahoma--One of finest offensive linemen in football in 1960. Quick and big (6-0, 235). Almost unanimous all-AFL selection. All-American guard at Oklahoma in 1957. Sideline by knee injury after first season in pro ball, but made highly-successful comeback as Texan. Offensive captain of Texans. Bachelor. Very prominent in nationally-known Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

PAUL MILLER, Defensive End, ISU--Defensive captain of the Texans and one of the toughest defensive ends in football. A six-year pro veteran. Plays the traffic--or left--side of the defensive line. Guard at ISU, but has been an end throughout pro career. Has good size (6-2, 235) and speed. Married and a father.

BUFFALO NAPIER, Defensive Tackle, Paul Quinn--A giant (5-4, 270) who became a Texan favorite in early season play in 1960. Has exceptional speed for size, but lacks experience. Played college ball for tiny Paul Quinn College in Waco, Texas. Coached high school ball before coming with the Texans. Married and a father.

AL REYNOLDS, Guard, Tarkio Teachers (Mo.)--A surprising young rookie who filled in very well for injured Bill Krisher and Marvin Terrell. Should get bigger than present 6-3, 225-pounds. Married.

JOHNNY ROBINSON, Halfback, LSU--Half of the best halfback combination in the American League. A fleet, deceptive runner (98 carries for 458 yards and 4.8 yard average). A very fine receiver (41 completions for 611 yards and 15.1 yard average). Second only to Abner Haynes in punt returns (14 returns for 207 yards and 14.8 average). Scored nine touchdowns for 54 points. Missed one-third of 1960 season because of injuries. Played on national championship LSU team with Mel Branch of Texans and Billy Cannon of Houston. Bachelor. Second year professional. Is 6-0 weighing 195.

PAUL ROCHESTER, Defensive Tackle, Michigan State--Joined team in mid-season 1960 and promptly took over as starting tackle. Improved by the game. Fine competitor. Has good size (6-2, 250) and strength. Second Year Pro. Married.

JACK SPIKES, Fullback, TCU--As outstanding a fullback as there was in the American League until mid-season injuries slowed him. Big (6-2, 220), strong and powerful. Averaged 4.0 yards with 457 yards on 115 carries, but was well above five yards per carry before he was injured. All-American at TCU in 1959. Became good field goal (13 of 31) and extra point kicker (34 of 36). Scored 103 points (third in AFL). Married and a new father.

SMOKEY STOVER, Linebacker, Northeast Louisiana--Came to Texans virtually unheralded, but earned a starting job early and kept it all season. Fierce competitor. Could use a little more size (6-0, 215). Very popular with teammates. Real name is Stewart, but no one uses it except his mother. Second year as professional.

MARVIN TERRELL, Guard, Mississippi--A player of tremendous potential. Has sprinters speed (4.8 seconds in 40-yard dash) and fine size (6-1, 235). Played offense solely in 1960, but was defensive standout on Ole Miss team which allowed only 21 points in 1959. Nicknamed "Mr. Clean" because of resemblance to soap character. Married. Second year in pro football.

DAVID WEBSTER, Defensive Halfback, Prairie View--A converted quarterback who made change so well that he received all-league mention at season's end. Has great size (6-4, 220) and very good speed. Scored three touchdowns in 1960, two on interception returns (one for 80 yards) and the other on a steal of a pitchout. Intercepted six passes for runbacks of 156 yards (best in AFL). Second year in pro football.

DUANE WOOD, Defensive Halfback, Oklahoma State--Joined team in mid-season, but made valuable contribution to Texan defenses. Intercepted four passes and ran one back for 66 yards and TD. Very fast. Had exceptional day against Boston in Cotton Bowl. Married. Third year as professional. Stands 6-1, weighs 190.

NEW TEXANS IN BRIEF

E. J. HOLUB, Center Linebacker, Texas Tech--The most publicized lineman in college football in 1960, the two-time all-American is certain to become one of professional football's super-stars. The standout lineman as well as a co-captain of the West Team in the annual East-West Shrine Game, Holub has been called "the finest professional football prospect in the country." Holub stands 6-4 and weighs 225.

RANDY DUNCAN, Quarterback, Iowa--All-American and the most coveted quarterback in the nation in 1958, Duncan chose the Canadian League over the NFL and promptly led the British Columbia Lions to their finest season in history. At Iowa in 1958, Duncan led the nation in yards gained passing (1,347), had the highest completion percentage (.587) and was tied for the most touchdown passes (11). He completed 101 of 172 passes for an average gain per attempt of 7.8 yards. Duncan played two seasons in Canada, but, after ending the 1960 season with a spectacular five-touchdown passing performance, he decided to return to the United States. Duncan is 6-0 and weighs 185.

FRED ARBANAS, End, Michigan State--"The finest blocking end in Michigan State history," says Spartan coach Duffy Daugherty. In addition, Arbanas is a better-than-average pass-receiver and an outstanding leader. He led the Spartans in passes caught in 1959 and last year was a co-captain of his team as well as one of the captains in the annual East-West Shrine Game. The 6-2, 220 Arbanas looks very much like a topnotch replacement for the retired Max Boydston.

JIM TYRER, Tackle, Ohio State--One of the most-sought linemen in the country, the giant (6-5, 265-pounds) Tyrer has the equipment for greatness. Primarily an offensive tackle for powerful Ohio State, he is slated for attacking duty with the Texans.

JERRY MAYS, Tackle, SMU--From Dallas Sunset High to SMU to the Dallas Texans. So goes the Jerry Mays story. An outstanding tackle at both Sunset and SMU, Mays will be tested at defensive end as well as tackle with the Texans. The 6-4, 240-pound Texan earned all-Southwest Conference recognition in both 1959 and 1960. He is also an outstanding civil engineering student at SMU. Mays is married and the father of three youngsters.

PAUL HYNES, Halfback, Louisiana Tech--A big, powerful sprinter who Louisiana football fans compare with Johnny Robinson and Billy Cannon, Hynes could be a big factor in Texan plans for 1961. At 6-2 and 210 pounds he has size and a 9.7 clocking for the 100-yard dash indicates he has speed. Hynes will be tested both offensively and defensively.

FRANK JACKSON, Halfback, SMU--The leading rusher as well as passer at SMU last year, fleet Frank Jackson will be given a long look in 1961. A brilliant athlete who probably could have been a college star in track or baseball as well as football, Jackson will be tried both on offense and defense. Majoring in theology at SMU, Jackson plans to enter the ministry upon completion of his studies.

JERRY BROWN, Fullback, Nebraska--The Armed Services' "Player of the Year" in 1960, the 5-11, 220-pound Brown could be one of the big finds of 1961. A good, if not sensational, fullback at Nebraska, Brown developed to such an extent at San Antonio's Brooke Army Medical Center that San Antonioans were comparing him with some of the all-time greats of service football in that city, probably the nation's strongest center of service athletics. A strong, tough runner, Brown was even more effective as a linebacker at BAMC. He will get a shot at both jobs as a Texan.

JOHN O'DAY, Tackle, Miami--The No. 1 lineman from a school which annually produces some of the country's best linemen, O'Day ranks high among Texan rookies for 1961. Voted his team's most valuable player, O'Day became a very good offensive tackle after playing defense most of his career. The Texans see him as an offensive tackle, although his versatility could get him a job on defense or as a swing man between the two. O'Day stands 6-2 and weighs 235.

J. W. MASHBURN, Halfback-End, Oklahoma State--One of the greatest quartermilers in track history, this two-time Olympian will be making a football comeback after a nearly 10-year absence. An all-state halfback at Oklahoma City, Mashburn passed up football in favor of track at Oklahoma and Oklahoma State. He represented Oklahoma as an 18-year old freshman at the 1952 Olympics in Helsinki, Finland, and then went to Melbourne, Australia, as a member of the 1956 team. He stands 6-3 and weighs 220. His top time in the 440: 45.9 seconds.

ROY LEE RAMBO, Linebacker, TCU--A linebacker Horned Frog fans compare to the Texans' Sherrill Headrick, Rambo could be a real find if he lives up to his recommendations. Exceptionally tough and with quick reflexes, the 6-2, 220-pound ex-Frog helps give the Texans one of the finest linebacking rosters in football.

ARVIE MARTIN, Center, TCU--A homegrown Dallasite who TCU coach Abe Martin terms "one of the greatest leaders TCU has ever had," Arvie Martin is a strong possibility for a Texan job as either an offensive center or linebacker. A captain at TCU as well as one of the West leaders in the East-West Game, Martin stands 6-2 and weighs 230. He played high school football at Dallas' Pleasant Grove (now Samuell) High School.

CEDRIC PRICE, End, Kansas State--A great basketballer at powerful Kansas State, Ced Price is returning to football after a two-year absence. Very fast (10.1) with good size (6-6, 210), he could develop into an exceptional end or possibly a defensive halfback. Averaged 18.5 points for 1961 K-State team which had 22-4 season's record and bowed out of NCAA play-offs only after losing to national champion Cincinnati. Was captain of K-State basketball team and all-Big 8 for second season. Starting end as soph when he led all Kansas State receivers, but early season injury ended college career as gridder. Drafted high by basketball's New York Knickerbockers and Kansas City Steers. Product of Fort Worth's I. M. Terrell High School.

For these millions, it's just a flick of the switch to their ABC-TV Network station to enjoy the action. But to bring the games to them involves hundreds of man hours of work and thousands of dollars in equipment.

This year ABC-TV is again televising AFL games exclusively. In all, the schedule calls for 39 regular season games to be aired on 15 Sunday afternoons and Thanksgiving Day. In addition, the league championship game will be presented at the conclusion of the regular campaign.

OFFICIAL ALL-LEAGUE TEAM

Thirty-two members of the press, radio and TV corps, all regulars at AFL games, were allowed to select the first official all-league team.

Their composite verdict showed a strong preference for the play of the league rookies, 23 of whom were named on the 44-man squad.

Offensively, there were seven rookies on the first team and seven on the second unit; defensively, there were four first-year men on the first unit and five on the second.

The divisional championship teams, Houston and Los Angeles, each put eight players on the squad to lead in player placement.

One unexpected development was the rise of lesser-known rookies to higher pro reputations than the more familiar All-America players. There were six members of the 1959 consensus All-America team, including the total backfield, in AFL play during 1960. Of these, only one — Houston halfback Billy Cannon of L.S.U. — won a spot on the All-AFL team, that on the second offensive unit.
